Important things you should consider when planning your wedding entertainment

The entertainment for your wedding day is a reflection of your special feelings of happiness. Here are our top tips to planning your entertainment

- Decide on the type of entertainment you want ensure it's in keeping with your theme
- Have a realistic budget in mind
- Book early. The best wedding entertainers get booked up early, especially during the busier times of the year
- Ask for images, weblinks or audio of the entertainment before you confirm
- Always ask to see testimonials from previous satisfied clients
- Always ask if the entertainer is experienced in wedding events
- Find out if they are performing near to you so that you can hear/see what they sound/look like
- What sort of packages do they offer? – Many entertainment agencies offer whole packages to include singers, DJ's, bands, magicians etc this is often a good way to save money
- Be aware of how much of a deposit is required to secure your booking and when the balance due
- Ask if there is any addition charge for changing parts of your requirements, travel or transport costs – these are often valid but not always obvious costs at the initial booking stage
- Always request a written contract. This should state at the very least the date, starting and ending time of the reception and the price. Your booking is not secure without a contract
- Try something unusual. Musicians, Bands and DJ's are the most popular choices for entertainment but why not really impress your guests with something a little different? Bellini Entertainments supply all manner of entertainments including Dance Acts, Themed Shot Girls and guys, Magicians, Comedians, Caricaturists, Doves as a symbol of your love for each other, Chimney Sweeps (guaranteed to bring you good luck) Children's Entertainers to keep the youngsters amused to name only a few.
